Dean of Smith College

Dear Advisor:

The 1986 edition of the Houston Baptist University Academic Advising Handbook has been developed to assist you in your role as an advisor. It has been designed to serve as a quick reference for useful and pertinent information.

Your new handbook is divided into three sections. The first section contains research data concerning academic advising. Included are definitions of advising, roles and functions of academic advisors, behavioral objectives, and limitations of academic advising.

Section two of the handbook is a collection of various lists, resource materials, and articles that you may utilize in advising situations. Specifically included is a set of "Houston Baptist University Advisor Responsibilities - 1986-87," which should be very helpful to you in directing your quarter by quarter advising activities. This section should contribute to your understanding of your task as a faculty advisor and your importance in the total educational goals of Houston Baptist University.

The third section contains information pertaining to specific departments and to specific H.B.U. regulations. It is imperative that you become familiar with section three.

You are encouraged to read your handbook very carefully, to refer to it often, and to utilize it completely as you advise your students. Make your role as an advisor more than a signature on a registration process form. Using your handbook and using other available resources, you can make your advisees' educational experiences more meaningful and significant.

If you have comments, questions, or suggestions, please share them with me.

ACADEMIC ADVISEMENT

INTRODUCTION

"ONE OF THE MAIN RESPONSIBILITIES OF ANY INSTITUTION OF HIGHER EDUCATION INVOLVES ACADEMIC ADVISEMENT OF STUDENTS" (WARD, 1979, p. 1).

In most institutions of higher education, faculty members are required to assume the role of academic advisor (Dressel, 1974, p. 57). Until recently, faculty advising had received relatively little or no attention in the literature or on individual campuses even though systems of academic advising involve hundreds of thousands of students, faculty, and paraprofessionals (Raskin, 1979, p. 99). In addition, multiplied millions of dollars in both faculty time and physical facilities are required to support and conduct the activity known as academic advising (Bonar, 1976a, p. 190). Greater interest in advising has developed because of the growing complexity of higher education institutions, because of the ever increasing threat of declining enrollment, and because of the diversity of the students enrolling in the universities. Once viewed as a set of scheduling procedures, academic advising programs have been established to assist students in the development of their human potential (Abel, 1980, p. 151).

ASSUMPTIONS

Universal practice in higher education has students assigned to faculty members in the disciplines in which the students are majoring. Too frequently, however, faculty advisors must work with students who are undecided about a major. The general assumption is that faculty advisors will be able to guide their advisees toward each advisee's collegiate goal - to be graduated within the normal span of four or five academic years (Dressel, 1974, p. 57).

Academic advising systems utilizing the university faculty are based on several assumptions:

1. Faculty members are interested in one-to-one situations with students.
2. Faculty members are the most appropriate persons to guide students in course selections.
3. Faculty members are knowledgeable enough to help students through a maze of degree requirements.
4. Utilizing faculty members is the most financially feasible way of providing academic advising.
5. Students want advice from faculty members concerning each student's specific academic program (Dressel, 1974, p. 57).

DEFINITIONS

It is obvious from perusing the five basic assumptions previously stated that faculty members in the role of academic advisors are essential components for any successful academic advisement program. Perhaps at this point the question should be asked, "What is a faculty advisor?" The American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers has stated that an advisor is "A member of the college staff (usually a member of the instructional faculty) assigned to assist a student with academic planning" (Definitions of Terms for Admissions and Records, 1980, p. 8).

Labeling the faculty advisor the "University Adviser," the Committee on Advising and Counseling at Stanford University asserts that:

> The University Adviser is the student's principal faculty adviser. His prime concern with the student, and the student's with him, is the identification of the student's aims and plans, his interest and abilities, and the planning of a coherent education that builds upon the student's interest and allows him perspective on and awareness of both his limitations and his strengths. The adviser does not plan for the student but helps the student to plan for himself (Study of Education at Stanford, 1969, p. 19).

The Stanford Committee defines the advisor as "...the student's academic advocate, the particular educator who agrees to concern himself with his advisee's best education." In the Committee's view, "The Adviser is not to be interested merely in obedience to regulations but is to pursue with the student the education that best serves and develops that student" (Study of Education at Stanford, 1969, p. 27).

Every student, regardless of the type and size of higher education institution, has occasion to be seen in a counseling relationship by a faculty member, known as the faculty advisor, specifically qualified to assist in decisions concerning academic majors and courses of study. The faculty advisor needs to be aware of the general programs of the institution and, more specifically, the courses within his academic division (Shaffer and Martinson, 1966, p. 46). However, The Advisor's Handbook of San Jose' State University emphasizes that "an academic advisor does more than offer advice on academic program planning." It continues that "an academic advisor is that representative of an academic department or program to whom a student can turn for the personal assistance that often accompanies the central activity of the university -- instruction" (1980, p. 2).

The definition for faculty advisor at Stephens College indicates that:

> ...every faculty member and professional administrator... assume counseling responsibilities for a group of eight to twelve students. Each adviser is expected to deal with academic, career, and emotional problems, and he has training to qualify him to do so (Mayhew and Ford, 1973, p. 51).

Crocket (1978a) contends that the faculty advisor serves as a coordinator of the advisee's educational experience. The advisor needs the ability to help students define and develop realistic goals, to perceive their needs accurately, and to match these needs with appropriate institutional resources. A caring and trusting relationship is essential.

It has been stated that the faculty advisor is more than an information and traffic-control officer. The advisor "conveys to the student a philosophy of contemporary education, a rational base for the consideration of problems, and suggests plans of action on which he may move" (Hardee and Mayhew, 1970, p. 21). The faculty advisor is a faculty member who gives advice to the student usually on matters directly concerned with course work and academic programs (Bornheimer, et al. 1973, p. 53).

THE FACULTY ADVISOR'S ROLE

The faculty advisor is generally a member of the university faculty who has been assigned to the role or who has responded favorably to an invitation to serve as an advisor (Bloland, 1967, p. 8). The role of the faculty advisor has been described by Hardee and Mayhew in the following ways:

> 1. The adviser will assist the student in effecting a program of study consonant with the latter's interests and competencies.
> 2. The adviser will assist the student in periodic evaluation of his academic progress.

> 3. The adviser will assist the student in initial exploration of long range occupational and professional plans, referring him to sources for specialized assistance.
> 4. The adviser will serve as coordinator of the learning experiences of the student, assisting in the integration of the various kinds of assistance rendered - health and psychological aids, remedial work, financial aids, religious counseling - the panoply of all services available to the students (1970, p. 11).

To facilitate the foregoing role descriptions, the advisor should have considerable knowledge of the institution's combined educational offerings, including the total available classes, extra classes, special topics classes, independent study classes, laboratories, clinics, and field experiences. It is essential for the faculty advisor to have a comprehensive knowledge of the curriculum. In addition, the advisor should be familiar with the college campus in its many structural parts; should recognize the prevailing learning climate on campus; and should have acquired, or be in the process of acquiring, adequate skills for communicating with various students in authentic, appropriate, and meaningful ways (Hardee and Mayhew, 1970, p. 11).

Agreeing with Hardee and Mayhew, Higbee (1979) asserts that the role of academic advisor has many facets. Advisors must be knowledgable and up-to-date on matters concerning (1) curriculum - requirements in the student's majors, as well as general education and graduation requirements of the university; (2) registration procedures; (3) student personnel services - medical, counseling, housing, placement, social, recreational, etc; (4) financial obligations; and (5) job market and employment information. Higbee (1979) also contends that faculty advisors must know the mechanics of adding and dropping classes; changing majors; transferring from one university, college, or department to another; evaluating transfer credit or courses; petitioning for grade changes; interpreting grade point average computations; and keeping accurate records of each student's progress.

The advisor's role as described in The Advisor's Handbook of San Jose' State University includes being the student's academic navigator. Since the advisor is the advisee's primary link to the academic programs of the university, the advisor should be "...the person to whom the student should want to turn for serious, considered advice on academic questions." The advisor and advisee are in actuality "co-navigators" because many basic decisions about an academic program must be made by the student, utilizing input from the advisor. The role as academic navigator involves offering suggestions, questions, criticisms, praise, direction, and any other comments which will help each advisee define and achieve educational goals (1980, p. 2).

In addition, it often happens that advisees and advisors become so closely acquainted that the advisor knows advisees intellectually, emotionally, and sometimes socially as well. These are products of a productive, equally shared advisor-advisee relationship. Of course, it is not the advisor's duty to act as pal or psychological confidant, but at times the advisee may come to the advisor seeking other kinds of counsel besides the purely academic. The alert advisor should anticipate such "probes" and be prepared to respond to them because the student's academic life can flourish only if it is relatively healthy in other ways, as well as academic (The Advisor's Handbook, San Jose' State University, 1980, p. 2).

Another role of the faculty advisor is being the student's advocate. Higbee (1979) refers to this role as "A large order!" because the advisor is "...expected to show a sincere interest in the student, become aware of the student's interests and abilities, and be the student's advocate within the department and the university" (1979, pp. 47-48).

Hardee (1961) has written that the role of faculty advising is a tridimensional activity, consisting of: (1) discerning the purposes of the institution; (2) perceiving the purposes of the student learner; and (3) postulating the possibilities for the student as a learner and promoting these as means are available.

The first dimension, discerning the purposes of the university, requires a knowledge of institutional aims. Within these aims, the goals of general and professional education must be understood. Part of the knowledge to be acquired by advisors is how the content of the individual courses and the method for their teaching produce overall learning. The advisors' search for the learning climate in their respective institutions involves the image the university has for prospective and present students - the texture of the campus, its feeling, and its spirit.

The second dimension, understanding the purposes of the student, is closely related to the first dimension when one considers the fact that students of a given nature generally gravitate toward the institution which will fit their needs, wants, desires, and objectives. The purposes of the college student are a blend of many interests, needs, and abilities and of family and cultural influences.

The third dimension, postulating the possibilities for the student as a learner and promoting these, requires cooperation with and from the student. Hardee (1961) states that "It is the ultimate in the advising role." The perceptive advisor facilitates the student's growth in wisdom, in the appreciation for and exercise of knowledge, and in the overall integration of learning (1961, p. 116). Advisors need to weigh their reactions and approaches to each individual advisee with one major purpose in mind: to enrich and enhance the advisee's academic pursuits and development. This can be accomplished "...by knowing the student's propensities and responding to them with opinions and help - always when asked, often when not asked" (The Advisors Handbook, San Jose' State University, 1980, p. 2).

Kramer and Gardner (1983) indicate that academic advising is a continuing process with sporadic contact between two individual parties. The role of the faculty advisor and the process of advising may be described by an anology: the student advisee is climbing a ladder called higher education, maturation, or achievement. There are various points on the ladder called landings - places to rest, to review progress, and to plan for subsequent efforts. The landings are probably located at different places on the ladder according to each student climber's needs, wants, and desires. Simply stated, the advisor's role and responsibility is to be available at each of the landings to help the climber review and learn from past efforts and to plan for what lies ahead (1983, p. 24).

FUNCTIONS OF THE FACULTY ADVISOR

Faculty advisors are selected to provide educational counseling for college students. To be effective, the advisor must recognize that each student has different abilities, interests, aspirations, needs, experiences, and problems. Academic advising cannot, therefore, be a mechanical, routine matter. The faculty advisor's primary responsibility is to help individual advisees plan the program of study that will satisfy university requirements and at the same time meet each student's specific needs. To accomplish this goal, the faculty advisor must urge the student to give ample thought to the matter of education; he must direct the student in examining all significant facets of education while making necessary decisions (Brown, 1972, p. 93).

Although the functions of the faculty advisor vary for different students, the general advising duties are normally as follows:

1. The faculty advisor explains to the student the program of general or basic education as it relates to the first two years of college, to the major of the student, and to preparation for life pursuits generally.
2. The faculty advisor helps the student examine the course offerings in his major, relate these to other possible majors, and understand the graduation requirements for the curriculum leading to an appropriate degree.
3. The faculty advisor helps the student explore the career fields for which his major provides training and obtain related vocational information and survey job opportunities.
4. The faculty advisor serves as a link between the student and the administration by counseling the student on his scholastic problems (course scheduling, course adjustment, and academic progress) and by making appropriate referral to other assistance agencies.

5. The faculty advisor serves as a "faculty friend" to the student by demonstrating a personal interest in him and in his adjustment to college; by serving as a central contact person in obtaining information that can be used to help the student; and by allowing the student freedom to make his own choices after the limitations, alternatives, and consequences involved in a decision are pointed out (Brown, 1972, pp. 93-94).

The faculty advisors assigned to advise students who are undecided about a major or majors have somewhat different responsibilities. Instead of helping each student explore the selected major, the advisor assists the student's investigation of potential majors by (1) referring the student to the counseling center for possible vocational testing and guidance and by (2) referring the student to special activities wherein interests may be explored and experiences gained. Once an undecided student has elected a major, it may be necessary to transfer him to a faculty advisor in his newly found major department (Brown, 1972, p. 94).

Hardee (1955) indicates that in helping the student emerge as a better integrated person, the faculty advisor engages in the following three types of activities:

1. Aids the advisee in the selection of a pattern of educational experiences which may result in better personal integration;
2. Assembles, organizes, channels, and centralizes all information, observations, and reports from every source relative to his advisee's progress, needs, abilities, and plans;
3. Assists the advisee at regular intervals to make adequate self-evaluation (1955, p. 164).

Hardee (1959) also suggests that while it is likely that the function of the faculty members serving as advisors may vary among institutions, colleges, and departments, their duties may be similar to the following:

1. The faculty adviser explains to the student the program of general or basic education as it relates to the first two years of college, to the major of the student (if he has expressed interest in a major), and to preparation for life pursuits generally.

2. The faculty adviser plans with the student a schedule of courses with a consideration of the over-all year's work. This may be accomplished through a consideration of the offerings set forth in the various publications of the institution, by considering the student's strengths and needs as revealed by a study of high school tests and grades and of college entrance tests, by personal interview, and by judgments as to his ability contributed by high school principals and teachers.

3. The faculty adviser assists the student in exploring his major field. To accomplish this, he will interpret the various departmental publications of the university; in addition, he may refer the student to a special consultant in the field or to the counselors in the vocational guidance office. Finally, he may recommend particular extra class or part-time work activities for the student.

4. Likewise, the faculty adviser assists the "undecided" student in exploring a major field. This is accomplished by referring him to experts in several fields of speciality, to counselors in the vocational guidance office, to the bureau of testing for supplementary testing, and to various extra class activities wherein interests may be explored and experiences gained.

5. The faculty adviser serves as a "faculty friend" to the student by demonstrating a personal interest in him and in his adjustment to college; by serving as > a central contact person in obtaining suggestions, which can be used to help the student, from residence counselor, teacher, or department head; in giving suggestions concerning the student to the residence counselor, teacher, or department head; and by allowing the student freedom to make his own choices after the limitations, alternatives, and consequences involved in a decision are pointed out.

> 6. The faculty adviser serves as a link between the student and the administration by counseling the student on matters of failure, on the procedures for dropping and adding courses, on eligibility for the various exemption examinations in general education, and on admittance to special remedial classes or clinics (1959, pp. 52-53).

Bloland (1967) indicates that the functions of the faculty advisor are group related. He classified the functions into three areas: (1) maintenance or custodial; (2) group growth; and (3) program content. Maintenance functions include those which help perpetuate the organization, follow rules and procedures, and provide a link with the group's history and traditions. The group growth functions are essentially facilitating. They refer to the advisor's contributions which help improve the operation and effectiveness of the group. The group growth functions include: directing consideration toward and assisting with development of group participation skills; organizational structure and procedures; leadership training; effective planning; evaluation; and related topics which apply to groups regardless of their specific objectives (1967, p. 12).

The faculty advisor makes his unique contribution as an educator on a university campus in the area of the third function -- program content. Specific contributions which the faculty advisor can make in this area are offering program suggestions, recruiting colleagues to provide information and perspectives on issues, helping the members apply their classroom learning to out-of-class situations, and, in general, influencing the program and activities of the group so that they are compatible with objectives and endeavors of the university (Shaffer and Martinson, 1966, p. 79).

Translating the functions and activities of faculty advisors into performance objectives, Hardee and Mayhew (1970) wrote that:

> 1. The faculty adviser discusses the program of general or liberal education as it relates to the first two years of college, to the declared major of the student, and to preparation for life pursuits both during and after college.
> 2. The faculty adviser plans with the student a schedule of courses, with consideration of the immediate goals as well as of the long range objectives as these objectives can be determined.
> 3. The faculty adviser assists the student in exploring his major field by interpreting printed information, by referral to other advisory personnel, in recommending extra class activities or part-time work experiences to clarify roles.
> 4. The faculty adviser serves as coordinator of the educational experiences of the student, working in company with residence counselor, day-student adviser, teachers, department head, or others who observe or interact with the student.
> 5. The faculty adviser serves as faculty friend, demonstrating a personal interest in the student and discussing with him the minor to major con-concerns of his educational pursuit. In this role, the advisor provides the student freedom to make his own choices after the limitations, alternatives, and consequences involved in the decision are pointed out (1970, p. 21).

LIMITATIONS OF FACULTY ADVISORS/ADVISING

Hardee (1959) and Brown (1972) indicate that a faculty advisor cannot be all things to all advisees because of the vast differences among students. Faculty advisors must recognize their limitations as counselors. Some of the restrictions impeding the effectiveness of faculty advisors are:

1. A faculty advisor cannot make decisions for an advisee but he can be a synpathetic listener and even offer various possible solutions to the student's problem.

2. A faculty advisor cannot increase the native ability of an advisee, but he can encourage the maximum use of the ability that the student has.

3. A faculty advisor cannot reduce the academic or employment load of a floundering advisee, but he can make recommendations that such adjustments be made.

4. A faculty advisor should not criticize a fellow faculty member to a student, but he can make a friendly approach to any teacher if that teacher is involved in the student's problem.

5. A faculty advisor should not tell an advisee his raw scores on psychological tests, but he can indicate areas in which the student seems weak or strong by discussing centiles derived from local norms.

6. A faculty advisor should not betray a student's confidence on matters of a personal nature, but he can seek appropriate professional assistance in helping a student with minor personal or social adjustment problems (Brown, 1972, pp. 94-95).

7. A faculty advisor should not attempt to handle cases of emotional disturbances which fall outside the behavioral pattern of students adjudged reasonably normal. When complex problems arise concerning financial aid, mental or physical health, or > personal-social counseling, faculty should refer students to professional personnel through the Dean of Students Office (The American College Testing Program, 1979a, p. 4.149).

Even though they must recognize their limitations as counselors, faculty members, Eble (1976) warns, may have to add a basic competence in counseling and advising to their professional skills. Such competence may be gained in much the same way as other skills: by learning through study or instruction or practice. Little skill is gained unless faculty members accept the responsibility, give attention to its details, and intelligently engage in doing it (1976, p. 74).

According to Hoffmann (1965) there are two additional factors that hamper the effectiveness of academic advising. Those two limitations are:

> 1. Competition for the budget dollar by services that are obviously more essential than academic advising, e.g., excellent teaching and outstanding faculty members as well as the apparently endless need for the expansion and maintenance of physical facilities.
> 2. Faculty reluctance to become engrossed in anything other than teaching and research which pay dividends in money and status (1965, p. 16).

These two factors will make it difficult for universities to cope adequately with the expected rise in emotional and psychological instabilities of students. Colleges and college faculty members must strive to increase, augment, develop, and improve academic advising effectiveness. If they do less, they will be failing in their obligation not only to their students but to themselves (Hoffman, 1965, pp. 16-18).

CONCLUSION/STUDENT BENEFITS

One of the major emphases at Houston Baptist University has been person to person education. The University has advertised and is committed to the concept that the student is of utmost importance on the university campus. This concept magnifies the significance of the faculty advisor's role and functions.

When the faculty member accepts the challenge and assumes the responsibility of being an advisor and when other university professional personnel support the faculty member in the advising role, a number of positive student benefits occur. Some of these benefits include the following:

1. The student will know at least one member of the faculty in an other-than-classroom acquaintanceship.
2. The student will have an opportunity to discuss with a faculty member one area of occupational or professional specialty.
3. The student will have a "lifeline" to the administration through his advisor, a member of the academic community. (In the current era of dissent and press for administrative change, the faculty member can become a strong ally, a trustworthy advisor and evaluator of political action, a teacher of the art and science of campus communication.)
4. The student will have a role model close at hand. The accessibility of an adult who is sought and admired is a powerful stabilizing force in the life of the student learner (Hardee and Mayhew, 1970, pp. 11-12).

SECTION TWO

HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY

ADVISOR RESPONSIBILITIES - 1986-87

1. Individual Student Advisement

The number of advisees assigned to each advisor varies with the type of commitment arranged for the individual advisor. In most instances, the advisement load includes students of all classifications (Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, Senior, and Special) and students of all levels of scholastic standing (Academic Warning, Academic Warning Continued, Probation, Probation Continued, Honorable Mention, Honor Roll, and Dean's List). Advisees on academic warning or probation should receive early and careful attention; their academic progress should be monitored with utmost care.

While one goal of the advisor/advisee relationship is to encourage student-initiated contacts, a minimum number of advisor-initiated contacts are expected. "Intrusive Advisement" is an appropriate and successful way to approach the advisor/advisee relationship.

II. Minimum Contacts

Fall Quarter 1986

A. Arrange an initial contact with all advisees early in the quarter. The first contact should occur no later than October 24, the last day a student can drop a course. If at all possible, the initial contact for individual advisees on academic warning or probation should occur before the end of the add period; the last date to add courses is Thursday, September 11. The advisor's responsibilities during the first meeting include getting acquainted, defining roles, and setting expectations.

B. Contact advisees for a general information advisement session during the quarter. Discuss academic progress, educational/career goals, special needs, etc.

C. Have an advisement contact during Early Registration Advising for the Winter Quarter, October 20-24. Determine the course load and schedule of classes; sign the registration process form; etc.

Winter Quarter 1986-87

A. Contact all advisees early in the quarter -- no later than January 30, 1987, the last day a student can drop a course. Contact with probation students should occur before the end of the add period; the last date to add courses is Thursday, December 4, 1986.

B. Contact advisees for a general information advisement session during the quarter. Discuss academic progress, educational/career goals, special needs, etc.

C. Contact advisees during the week of Early Registration Advising for the Spring Quarter, January 19-23, 1987. Determine the schedule for each advisee and sign the registration process form.

Spring Quarter 1987

A. Contact all advisees early in the quarter -- no later than April 24, the last day a student can drop a course. Contact probation students before the end of the add period; the last date to add courses is Friday, March 13.

B. Contact advisees for a general information advisement session during the quarter. Discuss academic progress, educational/career goals, special needs, etc.

C. Have an advising session during Early Registration Advising for the Summer and Fall Quarters, April 13-17, 1987. Determine each advisee's course load and schedule of classes; sign the registration process form; etc.

III. Each Quarter

A. Review each advisee's grades from the previous quarter. Advisor copies of the grades are usually available the first week of each new quarter. Record or have the grades recorded on the "Smith College of General Studies Academic Record Card" in each student's folder.

B. Review the list of your advisees who are presently enrolled for the current quarter. Compare this list with your copy of the list from the previous quarter. Determine students not presently enrolled and perhaps make contact with those non-returning students. Also, determine those students having academic difficulty for specific advising and monitoring.

C. Review the list of your advisees who are on academic warning or probation and who are currently enrolled. Please advise these students carefully and have frequent contacts with them.

7. Help students to evaluate and understand their educational goals.
8. Provide time for students to ask questions (Aiken, et al. 1976, p. 18).

STRATEGIES OF ADVISEMENT

Emphasized below are basic strategies of advisement used to assist in individual student development. Please review them carefully.

A. Attempt to become acquainted with the advisee in as many aspects as possible.

> Getting to know the advisees outside the formality of the office when possible, and not only during class scheduling or unusual circumstances, can be extremely valuable. Knowing the academic abilities and background of the advisee is also important. Having good documentation (the advising folder) such as high school courses with grades, rank in graduating class, ACT or SAT scores, transfer courses and grades from other universities, and present academic status is essential when assessing a student's ability and future direction.

B. Explore the objectives, interests, and motivations of the advisee.

> The advisee's actual certainty of future objectives and goals is difficult to ascertain. When the advisor has some knowledge of the advisee's non-academic background -- such as home influence, hobbies, and friends -- a more thorough type of advisement is possible.

C. Develop rapport with advisees.

> If the student knows the advisor as a professional person who has a genuine interest in students, the advisement process becomes much more benefical for both advisor and advisee.
> The student should be encouraged to become acquainted with other faculty members in the department, for mutiple contacts can be useful to the student who is attempting to assess his personal goals.

D. Become knowledgeable concerning university rules, policies, regulations, and procedures which affect academic programs and activity.

> Every advisor must be well informed regarding current academic policies and procedures for these are the foundations on which all advisement efforts will be built. Review of prior policies and study of new policy changes should be a regular activity of each advisor before beginning each registration period.
> Familiarity with courses generally taken by advisees, the characteristics of teachers of the courses, and how the courses have been appraised by prior students can make the advisement process smoother and more successful.
> Suggestions for student involvement in campus activities is often the key to retention in school.

E. Evaluate student motivation.

Enhancing a student's motivation by capitalizing on good academic planning can be a very helpful strategy. While lack of motivation is generally recognized as the most common cause of poor academic performance, no clear cut methods to help a student achieve maximum motivation have been developed. Suggested strategies might include:

1. Matching courses early in the program to the student's academic strengths, interests, and background.

2. Helping the student, when possible, have a chance to build on success rather than failure.

3. Challenging capable students to continue their efforts toward academic excellence.

4. Explaining the rewards of a strong academic program and associated good grades.

F. Be aware of the limitations of responsibility to where the burden of the advisement process falls on the shoulders of the student.

Obviously, an advisor cannot make decisions for an advisee, but can be a sympathetic listener and offer various alternatives for the advisee's consideration. Advisors cannot increase the ability of a student, but can encourage the maximum use of that ability. While advisors cannot change some aspects of class schedules or employment loads, the students can be referred to the proper offices for such adjustments when desirable.

G. Seek to determine the level of advisement appropriate for your own confort and training.

Generally, advisors should not attempt to personally handle complex problems concerning financial aid, mental or physical health, personal or social counseling. When these situations do arise, the faculty advisor should refer students to professional personnel who are specially trained and knowledgeable about dealing with such problems (Morehead State University, 1981).

Good luck during registration and other times of advisement. Please allow the Smith College Office to assist you if you need help.

LEGAL ISSUES REGARDING ACADEMIC ADVISING

The academic advisor is on the "front line" of the college or university in dealing with students. It is a critical position, and the success or failure of the student's education and growth is influenced greatly by the advising function. In today's litigious atmosphere, the advising function is more critical than ever.

Academic advising occurs under the umbrella of academic affairs. The courts have always hesitated to enter the academic arena and substitute their judgment for that of the academician. In doing so, they have recognized the academic freedom which protects academic decisions, including advising decisions. They have recognized also that their repeated presence in the academic community possibly could cause deterioration in the otherwise beneficial student-faculty relationship. Thus, if academicians do not abuse their discretion in dealing with students, they need not fear judicial intervention. The courts will intervene, however, if evidence exists of arbitrary or negligent treatment of students or a denial of their protected rights. The increasing number of court decisions dealing with classroom and academic matters attests to the growing judicial sensitivity to students' rights in academic affairs. The advisor's job falls within this academic affairs area, and, thus, advisors must understand the legal issues involving four major areas: the contractual relationship between student and institution, guidelines governing privacy of student records, the concept of privileged communications, and academic due process and the need for grievance procedures.

CONTRACTUAL RELATIONSHIP

In academic affairs, a contractual relationship exists between the student and the institution. The basic provisions of the college catalog, recruiting brochures, various bulletins, and the student handbook become part of the contract. The institution sets forth certain requirements for passing courses and for successful completion of programs and subsequent graduation. If students fail to meet the required standards they can be penalized through such action as dismissal, suspension, or failure to graduate on schedule; if the institution fails to respect its own regulations, then the student may seek judicial relief.

An institution may create certain contractual obligations through statements in its publications. Advisor's obligations and responsibilities usually appear in an advisor's handbook and often in publications readily available to the student. An increasing emphasis on quality advising to enhance retention brings added responsibilities to the advisor. More and more advisors not only are expected to understand such things as scheduling and registration procedures and degree and program requirements, but also they may be expected to function as a referral service or possibly as career counselors. Thus, if institutions promise such services from their advising system, they should ensure that their advisors can deliver these services. Where an advisor did not, or could not, perform his contractual obligation, then possibly liability could be present. Thus, institutions should be conscious of an advisor's obligations which might be created by unequivocal statements regarding advisor's responsibilities.

Most institutions' catalogs state that the ultimate responsibility for knowing degree requirements rests with the student. This type of statement normally would protect advisors if they commit an advising error. Generally, the advisor is not going to be held personally liable for erroneous advising in the absence of gross negligence, irresponsible behavior, or arbitrary or capricious treatment of the student. Advisors should keep notes of their discussions with students during advising sessions. An accurate record of advising sessions would help solve any disputes over the content of previous advising and also serve as a legitimate protection against claims of erroneous advising.

THE BUCKLEY AMENDMENT: ADVISOR'S RESPONSIBILITIES AND STUDENTS' RIGHTS TO PRIVACY

Since advisors maintain educational records--records of advisee's grades and other academic information--they must understand the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (commonly referred to as The Buckley Amendment). Basically, this act provides students with access to information placed in their advising files. Furthermore, it ensures that only school officials with a legitimate educational interest may see the student's file. The student's permission must be obtained before any other party may have access to the student's file. Thus, advisors, upon request, must allow students access to their advising file. This fact, however, does exclude a student's right of access to personal notes that the advisor may have made during the advising sessions. Under this Act these notes constitute records made by educational personnel and kept solely in their possession. Advisors may allow someone who temporarily performs their advising duty to see the notes; if the advisor is to be replaced permanently, however, he should remove any personal notes from the student's file before transferring the file to the replacement.

Under the legislation, the student has the right to an informal hearing regarding material in his record. If, at this hearing, the student does not receive satisfaction, then he may insert explanatory material in the file. The Act specifically denies students the right to a hearing regarding grades received. The student, however, may challenge the accuracy of transferring grades to the student's record.

Information in the file may be sent to parents of financially dependent students without the student's written consent. The registrar's office usually maintains information regarding a student's status as a financial dependent. Institutional policy, however, will determine whether or not information must be sent to parents without the student's consent.

According to the Buckley Amendment, a record also must be kept of requests received from school officials to obtain information from the student's file. The record should not only identify the official making the request, but also the official's legitimate educational reason for requesting the information. The record should remain in the student's file. Each institution is individually responsible for determining which parties qualify as "school officials" and what constitutes a "legitimate educational interest." Advisors should familiarize themselves with their institution's policy governing this matter, as well as other institutional policies regarding implementation of the Buckley Amendment.

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS

Although the law recognizes the student's right to privacy of his educational records, it also recognizes the advisor's right to privileged communications. Thus, in an effort to help a student, advisors can discuss confidential information regarding that student with other appropriate individuals. The courts generally will respect the right to such communications and will not hold the advisor liable for statements considered as privileged communications. This right, however, is not an absolute one, and advisors must exercise good judgment in making all confidential statements. To determine the appropriateness of confidential discussions, an advisor should simply ask if such a discussion would serve the student's best interest.

At times, students will come to advisors with personal problems; normally these problems should remain confidential. In some instances, however, a student may tell the advisor of certain intentions that would prove harmful to the student or possibly to others, such as the intention to commit suicide or the desire to harm another person. Although the statements are made in confidence, an obligation rests with the advisor to disclose such information to an appropriate party, such as parents, an intended victim, a school psychologist, or police.

ACADEMIC DUE PROCESS

The courts have mandated that students receive due process guarantees of notice and hearing in disciplinary cases, but students with grievances concerning academic affairs, such as situations involving erroneous advising, disputed grades, or alleged arbitrary course requirements, generally find themselves without due process guarantees. The courts, to this date, have not mandated legally what constitutes due process in academic affairs. Courts generally will respect the institution's procedures for handling academic affairs cases, as well as their decisions resolving these cases. As previously indicated, the courts will intervene in cases involving seemingly arbitrary or capricious treatment of a student. The voluntary application, however, of the spirit and principles of due process to academic affairs can reduce the incentives for legalism and reliance upon the courts by students when they feel aggrieved. With clearly-defined grievance procedures in place, courts will decline to intervene until a student exhausts this administrative remedy. Thus individual departments or divisions of the institution should outline procedures that students will follow in registering any grievances resulting from erroneous advising or any other action taken by the advisor. The following suggested procedures should not be construed as specific prescriptions to cover every case, but rather as a guideline:

1) Institutions should define clearly and publish the responsibilities of advisors and students in the advisor-advisee relationship.

2) Information the student is expected to know, such as academic requirements for continuance and graduation, should be clearly specified and publicized.

3) A well-documented and orderly procedure of appeal should be established and promulgated. A committee should be appointed in each department or division or one committee for the entire institution if that is deemed appropriate, which would hear complaints by students against advisors for alleged advising errors or negligent and irresponsible advising. The advisor against whom the allegations have been made should receive all due process rights in defending his actions.

Implementation and promulgation of these recommendations would not open a Pandora's box with a proliferation of student complaints against advisors. Rather, advisors would maintain a responsible attitude toward students, and students would understand more clearly their responsibilities in the advising process. The channeling of complaints through an appointed committee would formalize a fair and reasonable procedure which does not exist on many campuses today.

Two elements have combined to cause an increase in the number of academic affairs cases: arrival of consumerism to the campus and the lowered age of majority. Consumerism on campus today considers whether or not an institution delivers to the student the product it claims in its various publications, as well as in oral presentations. As legal adults, by virtue of the lowered age of majority, students must accept more responsibility for their actions on campus and thus also may have a great inclination to press charges against the institution when they believe they have received arbitrary or capricious treatment. This does not mean that all students might file a court suit when they reach the age of majority, but since they must accept the responsibilities of that status they will most likely be more zealous of their rights. With these prevailing conditions and the fact that quality advising is fast becoming a criterion for promotion, tenure, and salary increases, advisors should seek to understand the legal issues related to advising. This understanding will ensure a responsible attitude toward students and protect their rights as well as those of the advisor.

By knowing the current legal parameters and by practicing the "golden rule," advisors will create and maintain those policies and practices which respect the worth and dignity of each student. By doing so, they will help create a better climate for reducing the incentives for legalism and respecting the rights, freedoms, and responsibilities of all (Young, 1982, pp. 41-45).

ACADEMIC ADVISING DEPENDS HEAVILY ON ACADEMIC RECORDKEEPING (BONAR, 1976B, P. 402).

THE STEREOTYPES OF FACULTY ADVISEMENT

Certain aspects of faculty advising have tended to gloss the process so that the true dimensions of advising have been obscured. Among the stereotypes are these:

1. THE AUTOMAT STEREOTYPE. This is the common "slip a coin in and get a schedule out" process wherein the student and advisor interact solely in a mechanical process of working out a program suitable for a given period of registration. In a recent study it was noted that in many colleges, the view prevails that when a student has been assisted in arranging a program of classes that has met his needs, the major task of advising has been fulfilled. Students deserve much more assistance in the forms of analysis of their achievement, assistance in occupational exploration, referrel to remedial and developmental services, effecting suitable work-study and recreation patterns, referral to health services, financial assistance, part-time work, and discussion of appropriate graduate and professional programs with eventual placement.

2. THE THOUSAND-MILE CHECKUP: This stereotype is one that conceives of the advisor as active in arranging a program of courses and subsequently checking a month or six weeks thereafter to see how the program has worked. This and little more! This stereotypic action has been described as follows:

   > ... the university provided me with a freshman advisor to whom I was to go when my first month's grades were turned in, and regularly thereafter once a month. My particular advisor was an ascetic-looking assistant professor in English, very scholarly and by no means interested in callow freshmen. He had a half-dozen other freshmen besides me to advise, and his technique was to get rid of us as quickly as possible. Every month he gave me my grades and said, "That's fine; you're doing very well." I said, "Thank you," and walked out. In later years when I became interested in the institution of freshmen advisors, I questioned numerous students on the campus and found not one who had received more advice from his than I had from mine.

3. THE PATCH-AFTER-CRASH STEREOTYPE. In this role, the faculty advisor is galvanized into action at moments of crisis. The student fails miserably, is entrapped in a violation of academic or social regulations, is about to drop or be dropped, with the result that the faculty advisor races to the scene -- office of the academic or personnel dean -- with sirens blowing. Too little and too late is usually the appraisal of this well-intentioned but ill-planned maneuver.

4. THE MALEVOLENT BENEVOLENCY. One more stereotype surely deserves to be mentioned. It is that which pictures the faculty advisor as mother hen, with a wingspread like that of an eagle, hovering over the student by day and by night --protecting, preventing, paternalizing. Probably, at some time or another, the advisor wonders if he is not prolonging infancy. These times should be rare -- in the early weeks, for instance, when for the freshmen, the break from home and home town may seem cataclysmic. It must be patently understood that any program of faculty advising that stultifies human growth and development cannot be justified.

There are assuredly other stereotypes, but the ones noted above seem to illustrate some myths and confusions about the advisor role. All these certainly miss the point of real importance: the consideration of the learner in the climate of his learning (Hardee and Mayhew, 1970, pp. 10-11).

"THE ADVISOR SHOULD RECORD INFORMATION IN THE ADVISEES' FILES WHICH MAY BE HELPFUL IN FUTURE ADVISING SESSIONS WITH THE STUDENTS, AND FOR POSSIBLE USE BY OTHER ADVISORS IN CASE OF REFERRAL OR CHANGE OF MAJOR. THE ADVISOR SHOULD ALSO KEEP A RECORD OF THOSE COURSES WHICH THE STUDENTS WERE ADVISED TO TAKE AND A RECORD OF THE STUDENTS' FINAL SELECTIONS" (CRAIG, 1981, P. 10).

"LET THE WORDS OF MY MOUTH AND THE MEDITATION
OF MY HEART BE ACCEPTABLE IN THY SIGHT, O
JEHOVAH, MY ROCK, AND MY REDEEMER."
(PSALMS 19:14, THE HOLY BIBLE)

SOME OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TRADITIONAL "GOOD ADVISOR" DESCRIPTORS

1. THEY ARE DERIVED FROM A THERAPEUTIC HELPING RELATIONSHIP. -- THE RESTORATION OF SOME PART OF A CRUMBLING PERSONALITY.

2. THEY ASSUME THAT THE ADVISOR-ADVISEE RELATIONSHIP CONTINUES BEYOND A SINGLE MEETING.

3. THEY ATTRIBUTE TO THE ADVISOR A SET OF CHARACTERISTICS WHICH DESCRIBE AN ALMOST PERFECT, IF NOT "GOD-LIKE," INDIVIDUAL.

4. THEY PRESCRIBE FOR THE ADVISOR A MOSTLY PASSIVE, RECEPTIVE ROLE WHICH ALLOWS ONLY THE ADVISEE TO BE SEEN "HOLISTICALLY."

5. THEY TEND TO FOCUS THE ADVISEE'S PERCEPTIONS OF THE ADVISOR ON HIS ROLE AS A PAID, TRAINED PRACTICING PROFESSIONAL (AS CONTRASTED WITH HIS BEING A "PERSON").

6. THEY PROBABLY SERVE TO DISCOURAGE FACULTY/STAFF PARTICIPATION IN ADVISOR TRAINING PROGRAMS, CONVEYING, AS THEY OFTEN DO, THE FLAVOR OF "BECOMING A COUNSELOR" AND/OR INTERACTING ARTIFICALLY WITH STUDENTS.

7. THEY SELDOM DESCRIBE THE INDIVIDUAL WHOM AN ADVISEE ENCOUNTERS, SO THAT STUDENT EXPECTATIONS FOR "WHAT SHOULD BE" IN ADVISORS ARE SHATTERED BY ACTUALLY "WHAT IS" (METZ AND ALLAN, 1981).

THE DEVIL'S (ADVOCATE) LIST
FOR GOOD-ADVISOR CHARACTERISTICS

THE GOOD ADVISOR SHOULD BE ABLE TO:

1. COAX AND WHEEDLE - "A STUDENT WITH YOUR AVERAGE (3.7) AND BREADTH OF INTERESTS SHOULD BE EXPLORING A VARIETY OF CAREER OPTIONS."

2. COERCE - "IF YOU WANT ME TO SUPPORT YOUR REINSTATEMENT REQUEST THEN YOU MUST SCHEDULE ONLY THESE COURSES NEXT SEMESTER!"

3. CONFRONT - "BUT YOU REALLY DON'T BELIEVE THAT I CAN TELL YOU WHAT TO MAJOR IN, DO YOU?!"

4. PERSUADE - "THE READING AND STUDY SKILLS COURSE WE OFFER CAN CERTAINLY HELP YOU IMPROVE YOUR ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE!"

5. PRESCRIBE - "WITH YOUR SAT SCORES YOU SHOULD TAKE TWO PREPARATORY MATH COURSES (BEFORE TAKING ENGINEERING CALCULUS) AND GET PLENTY OF TUTORING ASSISTANCE. COME BACK IN THREE WEEKS AND WE'LL CHECK ON HOW THINGS ARE GOING."

6. SUGGEST - "YOU CAN DECIDE WHETHER IT MAKES SENSE, BUT I THINK WITHDRAWING THIS SEMESTER IS THE BEST THING TO DO."

7. DENY - "I KNOW HOW YOU FEEL, BUT I CANNOT RETROACTIVELY DROP YOUR LAST SEMESTER'S COURSE JUST BECAUSE YOU FLUNKED IT!"

8. BACKSLIDE - "LOOK, I KNOW WHAT THE CAMPUS POLICY IS, BUT, GIVEN YOUR SITUATION, I'LL MAKE AN EXCEPTION" (METZ AND ALLAN, 1981).

STUDENT MISBEHAVIOR

SHOULD MISBEHAVIOR BE REPORTED? In most instances of minor misbehavior, the situation can be best handled within the organization through group sanctions and penalties and with the advisor counseling with the students involved. In other instances, not covered by existing procedures or policies, the advisor must use his best judgment, referring or reporting serious cases of misbehavior or maladjustment to the appropriate college office.

Keeping in mind his responsibilities to the welfare of the individual student, the organization, and the institution, the advisor will also need to consider such other factors as these:

1. Does the type of misbehavior cast a serious doubt on the individual's fitness for his objective? For example, the accounting major who embezzles money from the group treasury.
2. Can an otherwise worthwhile young person be deterred from other and more serious misbehavior by firm action and rehabilitative counseling at this stage?
3. Does the misbehavior constitute a criminal act which the advisor's failure to report may result in his being implicated?
4. Are there serious implications for the institution's public posture or relationship with the community?
5. Is the misbehavior symptomatic of possible psychological disturbance on the part of the student which could require professional attention? The counseling center, student affairs office, or dean's office may know of other similar incidents which, with the advisor's report, may indicate a disturbed student who needs assistance.

The responsibility of the advisor to the student is a real one but he must not assume that referral to the student personnel office will necessarily work to the student's disadvantage or result in his dismissal. If the advisor is in doubt as to the correct action, he should consult the dean's office or student affairs office on a confidential basis or at least by describing the situation as a hypothetical case (Bloland, 1967, p. 27). Refer to pages 35-40 in the current HBU Student Handbook for additional information and specific policies.

MEMORANDUM

Date: July 1, 1986

To: THE FACULTY

From: JERRY FORD, Ed. D., DEAN OF SMITH COLLEGE

Re: ADVISORS PERCEPTION INVENTORY

During Spring registration, 1986, students were given a 16 item "Advisor Perception Inventory." Each registrant was asked to respond to each item and each student was instructed to list his advisor's name on the "Inventory." In addition, several wrote specific comments.

A copy of the "Advisor Perception Inventory" is shown on page 40. A copy of the "Results of the Advisor Perception Inventory Spring 1986" with the percentage of student responses to each item is displayed on page 41. For example: 44.60% of the students responded that they strongly agreed with the first statement, "My advisor has been readily available for consultation;" 40.36% simply agreed; 5.15% were undecided; 5.46% disagreed; 1.59% strongly disagreed. For comparison purposes, the 1985 results of the "Inventory" are shown in parentheses.

Exhibited on pages 42-44 is a copy of "Unsolicited Responses Written by Students on the Advisor Perception Inventory." These responses are typed exactly as they were written by the students with the exception of the omission of names.

Please read each item on the "Inventory" and the "Responses." If you see strengths or weaknesses in your own advising procedures, then the "Inventory" has been a success.

Thank you for your cooperation.

WHAT IS A STUDENT?

A STUDENT is the most important person in any educational institution.

A STUDENT is not dependent on us. We are dependent on him.

A STUDENT is not an interruption of our work. He is the purpose of it.

A STUDENT does us a favor when he enrolls. We are not doing him a favor by serving him.

A STUDENT is a part of our work—not an outsider.

A STUDENT is not just a statistic. He is a flesh and blood human being with feelings and emotions like ourselves.

A STUDENT is a person who comes to us with his needs or wants. It is our job to fill them.

A STUDENT is deserving of the most courteous and attentive treatment we can give him.

A STUDENT is the life blood of this and every other educational institution (source unknown).

HOW YOU AND YOUR FACULTY ADVISOR SHOULD WORK TOGETHER

When you were admitted to Houston Baptist University, you were assigned to a faculty advisor for both educational and vocational guidance and advising. Since your advisor is responsible for counseling a group of student advisees as needs occur, the following suggestions are offered to you to help enhance your experiences with your advisor:

1. You should............Contact and keep in touch with your advisor.
   Your advisor should...Post office hours.
2. You should............Make and keep appointments or call if it is necessary to change or cancel an appointment.
   Your advisor should...Keep appointments or call if it is necessary to change or cancel an appointment.
3. You should............Come with specific questions in mind.
   Your advisor should...Provide accurate and specific information.
4. You should............Come with necessary materials (pencil, Schedule of Courses, forms, etc.)
   Your advisor should...Have on hand resource material (H.B.U. Bulletin Of Information, Advisor's Handbook, etc.)
5. You should............Ask about other sources of information.
   Your advisor should...Suggest other sources of information.
6. You should............Be open concerning school work, study habits, academic progress, etc.
   Your advisor should...Listen to you and help you solve problems.
7. You should............Build a schedule free of conflicts in time.
   Your advisor should...Check your schedule for appropriate selection of courses.
8. You should............Make decisions concerning careers, choice of majors, and selection of courses.
   Your advisor should...Suggest options concerning careers, choice of majors, and selection of courses.

WHEN TO SEE YOUR ADVISOR

1. To discuss any problems which affect academic performance.
2. To select courses for the upcoming quarter (during registration).
3. To add or drop courses (during registration).
4. To register to take a course pass-fail or audit (during registration).
5. To discuss academic progress.
6. To declare a major.
7. To file a degree plan.
8. To discuss career considerations.

HOW TO SEE YOUR ADVISOR

1. Become familiar with your advisor's office hours/schedule.
2. Whenever possible, call to make an appointment rather than drop in without one.
3. If it is necessary to drop in without an appointment, try to come at a time when your advisor is on duty, avoid the busiest time of the day (10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.), and allow plenty of time in case you have to wait to see your advisor.
4. Because the first and last two weeks of each quarter are the busiest for your advisor, schedule longer conferences (to discuss issues like possible majors and careers) during the middle part of the quarter.
5. You may secure a "Request for Change in Faculty Advisor" form from the Smith College Office if for any reason you need to change advisors (Undergraduate Advising Center, July, 1981).

STUDY TIPS FOR THE LEARNER

I. SUGGESTIONS FOR IMPROVING WRITTEN WORK

A. Written work reveals ability, desire, and character. It is the most important product that you have to offer in exchange for a grade.

B. The primary requirement of all written work is that it be presented in an interesting, mechanically correct, and attractive manner.

C. Judge the quality of your written composition by questioning its parts, content, and presentation.

D. Observe closely the three basic obligations of all students toward written work:

1. Have a working knowledge of the subject.
2. Present the material in the best possible form and structure.
3. Never pass off inferior work in order to get by.

E. Excellence is the only real quality of written work that is permanent. Excellence in packaging the product (putting written work in an attractive, correct, and neat form) comes from a "sense of pride" in one's work.

F. Adopt practices that will reveal your weaknesses and encourage your improvement. Plot your own methods for adding quality and completeness.

II. PRACTICES FOR BETTER RESEARCH PROJECTS.

A. General Research

1. Strive for originality, but depend on your scope of reading and your grasp of material to determine the quality of your theme.
2. Take notes on 3"x5" index cards, and save time by preparing bibliography cards while you are gathering material.
3. Make footnotes and sound bibliography reflect the scholarship and authority of your paper.

B. Book Reports

1. For short book reports use the four w's -- who, where, when, and why to relate the story.

2. In all book reports show your appreciation or lack of it through your study of the characters or the nature of the book. Avoid editorializing to praise or condemn.
3. Observe closely the two obligations that the book report has to the reader:
    a. To describe the book.
    b. To communicate something of its quality or lack of it.
4. Avoid the meaningless superlative and the baseless generalization. There is no "best book ever written" and there is no "greatest literary genius who ever lived."

C. The Meaning of Style

1. Only by reading great writing can you develop a feeling for style.
2. Style in writing is not affectation, novelty, artificial coloring, or fashion. It is simplicity and sincerity based upon concern for the reader.
3. Style in writing is that quality which brightens the obscure, makes instruction agreeable, gives depth to the simple, adds distinctiveness to the ordinary, and brings harmony out of discord.
4. Style is only achieved by those who believe in what they write. The heart must know first what words can produce on the page.

III. GUIDELINES FOR REVIEWING MATERIAL AND TAKING TESTS

A. Review by selecting the important subject matter; concentrate on it rather than on the trivial and incidental.

B. Review by listening for hints and helps given by the instructor just prior to the test.

C. Review by predicting questions for the test. Think how questions can be asked on specific subject matter.

D. Review by reorganizing the subject matter into logical divisions. Keep a sense of unity by being aware of relationships among parts.

E. Review by changing your point of view. Let your imagination add interest to the subject.

F. Review by knowing what "question words" mean. Learn what your teacher expects when certain key words are used.

G. When you take the test or examination, read all questions and instructions carefully and repeatedly until you understand exactly what the answer and the presentation of the answer require.

H. Know the general implications of key and qualifying words in both objective and essay questions. Do not, under any circumstances, make an exception for what the qualifying word asks for.

I. On objective tests give the precise answer; on essay tests give the complete answer. Always remember that quantity without quality will not get a good grade.

J. Observe all rules of neatness, mechanics, and clarity. The attractive paper that is easy to read gets the better grade.

K. Check your paper carefully before you turn it in. Unless you are absolutely sure you have made a mistake, do not change your answers. The first impression, as psychological tests have shown, is more reliable.

L. Improve all future test and examination grades by carefully checking all returned papers. Note your errors and shortcomings so you will not repeat them on the next test (Fogarty, 1981, pp. 137-138).

STUDENTS ON ACADEMIC PROBATION

The Role of the Faculty Advisor

Many university personnel who work daily with students on academic probation find that those who are academically dismissed later make relatively common errors in judgment. Many of these students might have stayed in college if they had made different decisions while on probation. Listed below are some student errors occurring most often and the logic students use to make these mistaken judgments. In addition, basic information to help the academic advisor intercede and show the probationary student his mistakes in judgment follows each student error.

ERROR 1. ENROLL IN TOO MANY CREDIT HOURS. Students think they can "get it all back" through one heroic try and, thus, attempt to make the entire grade-point-average improvement in a single quarter.

ASSISTANCE: Students on probation should take fewer credit hours, not more. Students who attempt to make large grade-point-average improvements in one quarter usually find they do poorer work because of the multiplying effects of more quizzes, papers, tests, class hours, etc. A maximum course load for students on probation might be the minimum for full-time student classification (8 hours). A student who earns more average grades makes less grade-point improvement than the student who earns fewer, but higher grades.

ERROR 2. AVOID REPEATING COURSES IN WHICH THEY EARN BELOW-AVERAGE GRADES. Students fear repeating courses they earned below-average grades in and, instead, hope to make up the difference in other courses.

ASSISTANCE: Students who earned below-average grades in courses usually should repeat courses as soon as possible -- at HBU repeated grades replace original grades taken at HBU in calculating the grade-point average if the repeated grade is higher than the original. For example, a student who repeats an "F" course and receives a "C" has improved his GPA as much as earning an "A" in another course, because the repeated grade replaces the original in calculations. Most students do improve a grade upon repeating a course because prior exposure to the course makes them aware of expectations and study needs. Unless the student lacks a prerequisite for repeating the course, he usually should repeat the course to improve his grade-point-average and to remove the failure symbolically, if not physically, from his record.

ERROR 3. ATTEMPT TO DROP A COURSE AFTER THE DEADLINE FOR WITHDRAWALS. Students believe they will receive special consideration because of their situation and expect to withdraw to protect their grade-point-average.

ASSISTANCE: An advisor should emphasize that a student cannot withdraw from courses past the established deadline. The last day to drop a course with a "W" grade is usually the end of the seventh week of the quarter. For specific dates, advisors should consult the university calendar in the current HBU Bulletin of Information.

ERROR 4. FAIL TO RESOLVE INCOMPLETE GRADES WITHIN THE TIME LIMIT. Students hope that they can do nothing and have university officials ignore their incomplete grades. Sometimes they fear completion of the grade (i.e., replacement grade for the incomplete) will hurt their chances for continuation at the university.

ASSISTANCE: Students who do not resolve incomplete grades usually suffer more serious consequences than if they resolved the incompletes routinely. At HBU, incompletes change to failures after one academic quarter. Thus, advisors should inform students of the significance of resolved incompletes compared even to mediocre completion.

ERROR 5. TAKE ADVANCED COURSES WITH A WEAK OR INADEQUATE BACKGROUND. Many students think they must graduate on time and, therefore, must not interrupt the sequence of courses for any reason.

ASSISTANCE: Students sometimes believe they must continue the schedule sequence of courses in spite of academic difficulties. In rigorous majors, students should repeat some courses, even when they earn passing grades, if they are weak or ill-prepared to continue the sequence. Often students refuse to take a short delay in completing a sequence, which, in turn, may cause a much greater delay if they are dismissed from school for academic reasons. Students should know the difficulty involved in mastering advanced courses in their major and should prepare sufficiently before proceeding.

ERROR 6. TAKE COURSES ON THE ADVICE OF A FRIEND. Students often are "advised" by friends to take courses simply because someone else found these courses met his need.

ASSISTANCE: Students often take courses on the advice of friends. Friends with good intentions may misadvise their peers about courses that are easy and appropriate for some, but difficult and inappropriate for others. The probationary student should place only limited faith in the course selections of friends.

ERROR 7. TAKE ALL OF THEIR EARLY COURSES EXCLUSIVELY IN THE GENERAL EDUCATION AREAS. Students want to get all the basic courses out of the way. The reverse of this is true also. Some students do not want to take any basic courses.

ASSISTANCE: Students frequently feel compelled to complete all general education courses as soon as possible. With this approach, however, a student may become discouraged and lose sight of the relevance of a total education. Thus, an advisor should encourage a probationary student to combine general and major course work, and when possible, to take at least one course in his own interest area each quarter.

ERROR 8. SEEK ACADEMIC OR PERSONAL HELP LATE IN THE QUARTER. Students want to succeed on their own and seek help only when it is too late.

ASSISTANCE: Students often fall prey to the myth of self-reliance. They believe that if they are not totally independent they are somehow unfit or unqualified for higher education. Such an assumption is neither true nor necessary. Students need to know about resources available on campus and to be assured that using support services is expected and encouraged as part of the total academic experience.

Exact advice given an individual student depends, of course, on that student's unique situation and the academic rules and regulations of HBU. Nevertheless, academic advisors who discuss the problems mentioned above with probationary students likely will point out many errors their students may be making. Reducing these common errors should reduce the attrition of students who, with proper academic counseling, will go on to adequate scholastic achievement (Russell, 1981, pp. 56-58).

SAMPLE LECTURE NOTES ON TAKING LECTURE NOTES

COURSE: ______________________ DATE: ____________ PAGE # ___

I. Three Reasons for Taking Good Lecture Notes.
   - A. To aid in studying for examinations. (Supplements and clarifies textbook.)
   - B. To aid in understanding the professor. (His emphasis and evaluation of materials.)
   - C. To aid in making a good classroom impression. (Questioning frequently follows lecturing.)

II. Four Rules for Improving the Listening Process.
   - A. Rule #1: Be Prepared!
     1. Read textbook assignments beforehand.
     2. Review previous lecture notes beforehand.
   - B. Rule #2: Learn Your Professor!
     1. His organization of lectures.
     2. His cues to major points.
   - C. Rule #3: Listen-Think-Write!
     1. Be attentive to what is said.
     2. Critically evaluate what is said.
     3. Restate what is said. (Be selective and use your own words.)
   - D. Rule #4: Use Proven Procedures!
     1. Standard-size (8½ x 11) looseleaf notebook.
     2. Separate notes from different courses.
     3. Date notes and number pages.
     4. Use standard abbreviations only.
     5. Write legibly and on only one side.
     6. Use underlining and other emphasis marks.

III. Three Forms for Taking Lecture Notes.
   - A. Paragraph Form (Poorest but easiest!)
     1. Little organization -- new paragraph when subject changes.
     2. Likely to copy instructor's statements word-for-word.
     3. Tiring to study -- hard to read solid block of material.
   - B. Sentence Form.
     1. A series of numbered statements.
     2. Best for following unorganized lecturer.
     3. Difficult to study -- major and minor topics undifferentiated.
   - C. Standard Outline Form (Best but Hardest!)
     1. Uses Roman numerals, capital letters, Arabic figures and small letters.
     2. Uses indentation to different depths.
     3. Requires thinking and organization to highest degree.
     4. Almost impossible to copy instructor's lecture word-for-word.
     5. Easiest to study -- content is logically organized.

IV. Three Rules for Reviewing Lecture Notes.

A. Rule #1: Review Lecture Notes Immediately after class!
B. Rule #2: Cross-reference Lecture Notes and Reading Assignments.
    1. To reinforce learning.
    2. To identify material not understood.
C. Rule #3: Recite Major Points Covered in Lecture.
    1. To retard forgetting.
    2. To check understanding (Wehe, 1968, p. 88).

SOMETIMES, A FEW SIMPLE RULES CAN UNCOMPLICATE MATTERS!

1. IF YOU OPEN IT, CLOSE IT.
2. IF YOU TURN IT ON, TURN IT OFF.
3. IF YOU UNLOCK IT, LOCK IT UP.
4. IF YOU BREAK IT, ADMIT IT.
5. IF YOU CAN'T FIX IT, CALL IN SOMEONE WHO CAN.
6. IF YOU BORROW IT, RETURN IT.
7. IF YOU VALUE IT, TAKE CARE OF IT.
8. IF YOU MAKE A MESS, CLEAN IT UP.
9. IF YOU MOVE IT, PUT IT BACK.
10. IF IT BELONGS TO SOMEONE ELSE AND YOU WANT TO USE IT, GET PERMISSION.
11. IF YOU DON'T KNOW HOW TO OPERATE IT, LEAVE IT ALONE.
12. IF IT IS NONE OF YOUR BUSINESS, DON'T ASK QUESTIONS.
13. IF IT AIN'T BROKE, DON'T FIX IT.
14. IF IT WILL BRIGHTEN SOMEONE'S DAY -- SAY IT!
(LANDERS, 1983, P. 12).

SEVEN HINTS ON TIME PLANNING

Time is one measure of life. Time wasted is life wasted. Time saved is life saved. Effective use of time, like effective use of money, is one way to find more enjoyment and more success from our daily living. Each of us has at his command the same amount of time for each week -- exactly 168 hours, no more, no less. Thus it is not the amount of time, but WHAT YOU DO WITH YOUR TIME, that counts most.

The secret of more effective use of time and greater enjoyment of living lies in organizing and planning. Each person will, of course, plan his own 168 hours to harmonize with his unique requirements, inclinations and interests. But there can be no doubt that wise planning for the use of your time will provide more time for those things you are interested in doing. Each thirty minutes saved through planning is time which can be used to make life richer and better.

Time planning is no magic formula. Its value depends upon study, thought, and effort. The plan suggested here can be a valuable asset to anyone who has the self-discipline to carry it through. To make it work for you, however, you cannot give up and quit after a half-hearted initial effort.

1. BUILD YOUR SCHEDULE AROUND YOUR FIXED TIME COMMITMENTS. Some activities have fixed time requirements and others are flexible. The most common which you must consider are:
   FIXED: eating, organizations, classes, church, employment
   FLEXIBLE: sleeping, study, recreation, personal grooming
2. PLAN SUFFICIENT STUDY TIME TO DO JUSTICE TO EACH SUBJECT. Most college classes are planned to require about two hours of outside work per week per credit hour. By multiplying your credit load by two you can get a good idea of the time you should provide for studying. Of course, if you are a slow reader, or have other study deficiencies, you may need to plan more time in order to meet the competition from your classmates.

3. STUDY AT A REGULAR TIME AND IN A REGULAR PLACE. Establishing habits of regularity in studying is extremely important. Knowing what you are going to study, and when, saves a lot of time in making decisions, finding necessary study materials, etc. Avoid generalizations in your schedule such as "study." Commit yourself more definitely to "study history" or "study chemistry" at certain hours.
4. STUDY AS SOON AFTER CLASS AS POSSIBLE. Check over lecture notes while they are still fresh in your mind. Start assignments while your memory of the assignment is still accurate. Remember, one hour of study immediately after class is probably better than two hours of study a few days later.
5. UTILIZE ODD HOURS FOR STUDYING. Those scattered one or two hour free periods between classes are easily wasted. Using them for studying will result in free time for recreational activities later on.
6. STUDY NO MORE THAN TWO HOURS ON ANY ONE COURSE AT ONE TIME. After studying for two hours you begin to tire and your ability to concentrate decreases rapidly. To keep up your efficiency, take a break and then switch to studying another subject.
7. BORROW TIME-DON'T STEAL IT. Whenever an unexpected activity arises that takes up time you had planned to use studying, decide immediately where you can trade for "free" time to make up the missed study time and adjust your schedule for that week (Wehe, 1968, p. 86).

"OH, TO HAVE AN ERASER THAT WOULD WIPE OUT PAINFUL MEMORIES. NOT SO MUCH OF THE TIMES WHEN WE'VE BEEN HURT, BUT THOSE STABBING MEMORIES OF THE TIMES WHEN WE'VE HURT OTHERS" (HOLMES, 1982, P. 58).

TIPS TO HELP DILATORY PERSONS OVERCOME FREQUENT TARDINESS

Fortunately, chronic tardiness can be overcome. It is a matter of determining whether the problem of being late is caused by psychological factors or whether the problem of being late is caused by a lack of time management skills. A change in behavior will not come overnight especcially if the dilatory person has been late all of his life. Correcting tardiness must be accomplished gradually -- one step at a time, like learning to play basketball or establishing new eating habits.

If you are chronically tardy the tips listed below should assist you in overcoming your problem. You should:

1. Be aware that tardiness is undesirable and causing you and those around you problems.
2. Want to do something about your dilatory actions.
3. Keep a daily diary for three days. Example: "At 7:00 a.m., my alarm went off. At 7:30, I finally dragged my body out of bed. From 7:30 to 8:00, I ate breakfast and glanced through the morning paper. From 8:00 to 8:30, I dressed with an ear tuned to the Today Show on television. At 8:30, I ran to catch the bus. Oops! Not such good timing. I missed it and had a twenty-minute wait for the next bus. At 9:20, I raced from the bus stop to my class.
4. Analyze the diary. Are you getting up too late to accomplish what you must before leaving your home or apartment? Are you daydreaming in bed too long after waking up early? Are you trying to accomplish too many tasks in the allotted time between getting up and getting out the door? Do you have an unrealistic picture of how much time tasks take? For example, do you allow yourself only twenty minutes for the twenty-minute bus ride to school or work, while overlooking the walk to the bus stop and the wait for the bus? If you drive your car to school or work, do you overlook the time needed to find a parking space? Are you taking too much time to decide on the day's wardrobe? Do you spend more time than you really have reading the paper, talking, or watching the morning television shows? Could some of your morning tasks, such as doing dishes and making beds, be put off until night? Could some of the morning tasks be delegated to other members of your household?
5. Take a good look at your environment. Does it help or hurt your timing? Are morning tasks done in as efficient an order as possible? Are cupboards and closets organized to help your time budget?
6. Visualize the ideal morning in which you have accomplished everything you would like to accomplish before leaving for school or work.
7. Assign a time allotment to each task of this ideal morning. Remember that time, like money, is valuable.
8. Compare ideal and real schedules. Rework them until they match.

9. Determine if you need a better understanding of priorities in your morning? Then go through that ideal schedule and divide the tasks into "must do this" and "nice to do this" and "not necessary to do this before class or work."
10. Get the help of others to keep to your schedule. Would it be more efficient for a spouse or older children to do some of the morning tasks? At school or work, would it be more helpful if others did not nag when you arrive late but praise you when you arrive on time to reinforce the positive?
11. Reward yourself for being on time. People respond to rewards. Example: "If I arrive at school or class early, I'll be able to discuss class activities with the professor or classmates." Think positive consequences! "These are the goodies for behavior change."
12. Set your clock and watch ahead. Trick yourself into being on time. (This doesn't work for everyone.)
13. Not aim for perfection. Your goal should be to arrive a little less late each time.
14. Not abandon your resolve and accomplishments thus far if you revert one morning and arrive late. Time management is a skill that takes constant practice.
15. Be aware, if time management skills don't correct your tardiness, you may need help in sorting out unconscious feelings that could be behind lateness (Burtoff, 1981, p. 32).

BUT THE LIPS OF A FOOL WILL SWALLOW UP HIMSELF"

HOW TO BE A LISTENER

Few skills are more important to learning than the ability to listen. Any capable student can improve his learning effectiveness by cultivating a listening ear.

John Drakeford, in his book The Awesome Power of the Listening Ear, suggests some ways to practice the art of listening.

First, decide to be an alert listener. Resist the tendency to "tune-out." Listening is always an active mental process, requiring complete attention to the information being given.

Second, determine the accuracy of all information given and examine the motives of the one giving the information. Seek to understand the reasons the communication is taking place at this particular time.

Third, look for the deeper message given by the facial expressions, gestures, and other body movements of the speaker.

Fourth, evaluate the communication in light of its personal relevance and benefit. Seek to set aside personal biases which block or distort the message.

Fifth, keep interruptions to listening at a minimum. Avoid all unnecessary distractions.

Sixth, anticipate the direction of the speech and mentally forge ahead of the speaker. Compare your insights with his.

Seventh, focus attention on the primary theme of the speech and be aware of material that supports the theme.

Eighth, summarize your thoughts periodically and thus establish a firm basis for future understanding.

Ninth, use all illustrations and examples as reference points for remembering the outline of the speech.

Good listeners do not lean back in a chair with half-closed eyes. Nor do they doodle on a pad or glance impatiently at their watch. Good listeners are alert, relaxed, and guarded against interruptions. Their eyes and mind are focused upon the speaker. Good listeners always seek to give the impression, "Tell me more" (Ryan, 1981, p.2).

"DON'T BE AFRAID TO BE FRIENDLY. YOU'LL BE HELPING SOMEBODY ELSE AS WELL AS YOURSELF" (HOLMES, 1982, P. 58).

THIRTY REMINDERS FOR EFFECTIVE ADVISING

1. Care about advisees as people by showing empathy, understanding, and respect.
2. Establish a warm, genuine, and open relationship.
3. Evidence interest, helpful intent, and involvement.
4. Be a good listener.
5. Establish rapport by remembering personal information about advisees.
6. Be available; keep office hours and appointments.
7. Provide accurate information.
8. When in doubt, refer to catalog, advisor's handouts, student handbook, etc.
9. Know how and when to make referrals, and be familiar with referral sources.
10. Do not refer too hastily; on the other hand, do not attempt to handle situations for which you are not qualified.
11. Have students contact referral sources in your presence.
12. Keep in frequent contact with advisees; take the initiative; do not always wait for students to come to you.
13. Do not make decisions for students; help them make their own decisions.
14. Focus on advisees' strengths and potentials rather than limitations.
15. Seek out advisees in informal settings.
16. Monitor advisees' progress toward education goals.
17. Determine reasons for poor academic performance and direct advisees to appropriate support services.
18. Be realistic with advisees.
19. Use all available information sources.
20. Clearly outline advisees' responsibilities.
21. Follow up on commitments made to advisees.
22. Encourage advisees to consider and develop conversations for future reference.
23. Keep an anecdotal record of significant conversations for future reference.
24. Evaluate the effectiveness of your advising.
25. Do not be critical of other faculty or staff to advisees.
26. Be knowledgeable about career opportunities and job outlook for various majors.
27. Encourage advisees to talk by asking open-ended questions.
28. Do not betray confidential information.
29. Categorize advisees' questions; are they seeking action, information, or involvement and understanding.
30. Be yourself and allow advisees to be themselves (The American College Testing Program, 1979a, p. 4.138).

HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY

Smith College of General Studies

The foundation unit in the organizational program of Houston Baptist University is the Smith College of General Studies. Each student admitted to the University, regardless of past experiences, is first assigned to Smith College for evaluation and guidance. The guidance and advising, both vocational and educational, is accomplished by the system of faculty advisors under the direction of the Smith College Dean. Each advisor is responsible for counseling a group of student advisees as needs occur.

In order to obtain a degree from H.B.U., the Smith College requirements, including fifty semester hours (for the Bachelor of Arts Degree and the Bachelor of Music Education Degree), forty-nine semester hours (for the Bachelor of Science Degree), forty-six semester hours (for the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree), forty-one semester hours (for the Bachelor of Music Degree), and forty-nine or fifty semester hours (for the Bachelor of Accountancy Degree), must be completed. ENGLISH PLACEMENT GUIDELINES

Advisors are asked to enroll freshmen in the appropriate English courses (i.e., English 1303; English 1313; English 1214, 1224, 1234; or English 1404) on the basis of the following guidelines:

1. Place in English 1303 entering freshmen scoring below 40 on the TSWE and below 18 on the English section of the ACT.

2. Place in English 1313 students scoring 40 or above on the TSWE or 18 or above on the ACT.

3. Place entering freshmen with no available scores in English 1303.*

* All freshman English teachers will assign an in-class essay on the first day their classes meet. On the basis of these essays, students may be reassigned from 1303 to 1313 or from 1313 to 1303. The majority of the 10% of the entering freshmen who have taken neither test are GED students, students who have been out of school for many years. Most of the students falling into these three categories will not be proficient in basic writing skills and will remain in English 1303.

4. Entering foreign students whose TOEFL scores are below 600 must take English 1404.

5. Non-native English speakers who received a grade of P in English 1404 should enroll in 1214, 1224, or 1234. A grade of P means that the student should take at least one additional writing laboratory.

6. After successful completion of English 1404, or of English 1214, 1224, 1234, the student should take 1303 unless otherwise advised by a committee of the Languages Department.

7. Advisors should urge every student to take the English Proficiency Exam as soon as the student becomes eligible.

   Eligibility Requirements

   All students, with the exception of Nursing majors, are eligible to take the English Proficiency Exam when they have passed the 12 hours of the Smith College English requirements.

   Nursing majors are eligible when they have passed 9 hours of the Smith College English requirement.

   ADN students are eligible when they have completed English 1313 and English 1323.

GUIDELINES FOR STUDENTS TAKING THE ENGLISH PROFICIENCY EXAMINATION

I. The English Proficiency Examination will be administered once each quarter in Mabee Teaching Theater at 4:00 p.m. on the first Thursday of the first week of classes. The two summer terms are considered as one quarter.

II. With the exception of nursing students, all students taking the examination must have successfully completed ENGL 1313, ENGL 1323, ENGL 2313, and ENGL 2323. Before taking the examination, nursing students in the B.S.N. program must have completed ENGL 1313, ENGL 1323, and either ENGL 2313 or ENGL 2323; students in the A.D.N. program must have completed ENGL 1313 and ENGL 1323.

III. The student must submit a verification form either to the Records Office or to the English Department at least two weeks before the administration of the exam; this date is the Thursday of the final week of the quarter. Verification forms are available from the Records Office or from the English Department.

IV. Students must bring an HBU identification card or a Texas driver's license and writing material to the exam. The students may also bring dictionaries.

V. In order to receive a passing grade on the English Proficiency Exam, a student will be able to write an essay within two hours which conforms to the following standards:

A. A well organized and adequately developed essay will contain at least five paragraphs and will include an introduction, a development, and a conclusion.

B. In the first paragraph, the essay will contain a clearly stated thesis which responds to the assigned topic.

C. Each developing paragraph will contain a topic sentence which supports the thesis.

D. Each developing paragraph will effectively support and develop the controlling idea of the paragraph.

E. The essay will be largely free of such technical errors as the incorrect use of the apostrophe and of the possessive, the omission of necessary commas, the consistent misspelling of common words, the use of the second person, inadequate pronoun reference, and non-standard word order. Papers containing more than three (3) such errors will not receive a passing grade.

F. The essay will be largely free of such major errors as the fragment, comma splice, fused sentence, subject-verb disagreement, and pronoun-antecedent disagreement. An essay containing any two (2) of these errors will automatically fail.

VI. Any student failing the exam twice must, before taking the exam a third time, officially audit and successfully complete the requirements for one of the following courses: ENGL 1214, ENGL 1224, ENGL 1234, ENGL 1303, or ENGL 1313. The decision concerning which of these courses to take should be made in consultation with the student's assigned exam advisor.

VII. The results of the examination will be posted in the Department of Languages, with copies sent to Drs. Nash, Huckabay, Byrnes, and Sebron Williams.

Department of Christianity and Philosophy

To: All Faculty Advisors

From: A. O. Collins, Department of Christianity and Philosophy

Date: April 10, 1985

The Department of Christianity and Philosophy asks that you keep in mind the following matters as you advise your students:

1. Students should take Christianity courses in sequence:

Old Testament	CHRI 1313
New Testament	CHRI 1323
Christian Doctrine	CHRI 2333

   If this is a problem, contact Dr. Collins.

2. Remember that the Bulletin of Information states that BOTH Old Testament and New Testament are PREREQUISITES for taking Christian Doctrine.

3. Because Philosophy is such a meaningful preparatory course for any major in the liberal arts, please advise students to take at least one course in Philosophy. Courses in Philosophy now are required for a major in Christianity.

4. All Christianity majors and/or church vocations students should seek an advisor from the Christianity Department in order to be properly guided in academic pre-seminary courses. Dr. Robert Newell and the Center for Exploring Ministry Careers should be aware of and should be able to give vocational guidance to all church vocations students from the time they enter our university.

5. A pre-seminary major is now provided, designed specifically to prepare the student planning to pursue graduate studies. Proficiency in these courses makes it possible for select students to receive credit through testing for certain first-year seminary courses.

WORD OF WISDOM; AND TO ANOTHER THE WORD OF KNOWLEDGE, ACCORDING TO THE SAME SPIRIT"

SUGGESTIONS FOR ADVISING STUDENTS INTERESTED IN BECOMING TEACHERS

1. These suggestions apply to undergraduate students only. All special post-baccalaureate and graduate students seeking certification are advised by Dr. Shields (Office A10).

2. All degree plans for education students have the 12 semester hours Social Studies block completely filled with required courses, as shown below:

HIST 2313, 2323	U. S. HISTORY
POLS 2313	AMERICAN/TEXAS GOVERNMENT
CISM 1321	COMPUTER INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Students may be placed in these courses as freshmen as no prerequisite is required. Permitting them to take courses other than those listed above to satisfy the Smith College requirements may ultimately force them to earn more than 130 hours to graduate.

3. Education 3313 or Psychology 3313, Human Growth and Development, is not to be taken by students in Education with less than 63 semester hours. Nursing and Psychology students are to register for CDEV/PSYC 3313, Human Growth and Development.

4. At the time of the filing of the degree plan, a student is tc be advised of the membership requirement in the Student Education Association (or another approved professional organization) for two years, to pass the English Proficiency Examination (and Spanish for bilingual education majors) prior to student teaching, and to plan for student teaching.

5. Students are requested to apply for student teaching and confer with a member of the Education Faculty in the academic year preceding their student teaching.

6. Only certain approved majors may be chosen by the students for certification. The current catalog should be consulted to determine which fields may be selected.

7. Any member of the Education Department faculty will be happy to assist a student in choosing teaching fields and sequencing courses.

8. There are four basic teaching certificates available at HBU. They are:

   a. Teacher of Young Children (Age 3 - grade 3)
   b. Elementary (Grades 1 - 6)
   c. Secondary (Grades 6 - 12)
   d. All level (Grades 1 - 12)

9. Teaching certificates available in the graduate program include:

    a. Mid-Management Administrator (Principal)
    b. School Counselor
    c. Reading Specialist
    d. General Studies with certification in Special Education, Early Childhood Education, or Bilingual Education
    e. ESL
    f. Educational Diagnostician

10. Anyone entering teacher education must take and pass the pre-professional skills test. (Inquire in Education Office - Office A8.) EXCET testing will be required. Details are available from Education Faculty as they are approved by Texas Education Agency.

"THE REWARDS OF ADVISING ARE PERSONAL. THE NICEST PART IS SEEING THE STUDENT DEVELOP OVER THE YEARS - BECOME INDEPENDENT. IN THE BEGINNING YOU'RE TELLING THE STUDENTS. GUIDELINES FOR ADVISING MUSIC STUDENTS

1. If a student is academically strong (and has received credit for courses through CLEP or other advanced placement), he should be advised to take two SCR (Smith College Requirement) courses per quarter, other than PHED, from the beginning.

2. Students who have more difficulty academically and who would likely do poorly carrying two SCR courses with a full music load should be advised to take one SCR course (or one in addition to a PHED course) and to limit their load to 12 hours per quarter. At the same time, they should be advised that such a track will undoubtedly require one or two summer sessions or five years to complete.

3. Students who are working in a church or other job more than 10 hours per week should be advised from the beginning to expect to take a minimum of five years to graduate, to take only one SCR course per quarter, and to limit their load to 11 hours per quarter.

4. In the event that a student should be advised to take no SCR course, the advisor should send a memo to Dr. Ford explaining the circumstances for such action. Without such a memo, the registration will be questioned.

The above should result in a policy which enables a student to excel academically as he formulates a degree plan within a more flexible framework. Such flexibility should allow one to determine a time-frame which would best accommodate work load, academic acumen, financial solvency, and personal situation, thus enhancing one's chances of doing very well in all areas of collegiate endeavor.

NOTE: Private music lessons must be scheduled through the Music School.

NOTES TO ADVISORS OF INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

1. TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language)

   The TOEFL is the admitting examination for international students. Houston Baptist University requires a TOEFL score of 525, which is in keeping with the guidelines for admitting international students.

   Students with TOEFL scores of over 600 are admitted to full academic programs. Those with scores between 525 and 599 are admitted to partial academic programs, semi-intensive English, and Speech for International Students.

2. Academic Load for International Students

   International students on student visas must be enrolled as full-time students, that is, for a minimum of 8 semester hours. For the first quarter, English 1404 (English for Speakers of Other Languages), and Speech 1304 (Voice and Diction for International Students) are required, unless students place out of them through those departments. In addition, students may opt to take Physical Education (one hour) and/or an academic course (three hours). A non-verbally oriented course, such as mathematics is recommended for the first quarter.

3. English Requirements for International Students

   International students with TOEFL scores of 525 to 599 enroll in English 1404 (English for Speakers of Other Languages), a semi-intensive English course that meets five days a week (class and writing laboratory). At the end of English 1404, a committee of English teachers determines if the student needs further writing practice before entering the Freshman English sequence (1303 or 1313). If further writing practice is indicated, the student receives a grade of P in English 1404, and then enrolls in an ESOL Writing laboratory. One writing laboratory if offered each quarter (English 1214, 1224, 1234) so that international students have sufficient time to acquire a good foundation in English before beginning the regular Freshman English courses.

"FEW OF US DO AS MUCH AS WE WANT TO FOR OTHERS, BUT THERE IS ONE GIFT WE CAN ALWAYS BESTOW -- A SMILE" (HOLMES, 1982, P. 58).

INFORMATION ON FOREIGN LANGUAGES

The six-semester hour requirement in foreign language for the B. A. degree may be satisfied through the elementary courses, or more advanced courses, in any of the foreign languages. Students who wish to continue studying a foreign language begun in high school should be advised to enroll in that language early in the course of their university studies so that they have the advantage of building on that foundation.

French 1314, 1324 and Spanish 1314, 1324 are not open to students with more than two years of that language in high school or proficiency above Novice. French 2314, 2324 and Spanish 2314, 2324 are not open to students with proficiency above Novice.

Students with strong backgrounds in foreign language may take the MLA Cooperative Foreign Language Examination in order to earn six or twelve hours credit in French, German, or Spanish. Usually, students who have a background of three years of high school study in the language with grades of A or B can earn six hours credit. Those with four or five years pre-university level study with grades of A or B may be able to earn twelve hours of credit. Native speakers of a language can usually earn twelve hours credit. The examinations are given during the first week of each quarter. Students who are interested in taking the examinations should sign up in the Department of Languages.

Students interested in majoring in French or Spanish need to begin the study of the language early in their course of studies in order to allow time for the development of language skills needed for upper level courses. Upper level courses are taught in the foreign language. Students who earn twelve hours credit through examination can complete the major with a relatively low number of additional hours. Students with the foreign language major as a second major are sought for in many career fields today, such as social work, teaching, and business.

The Language Center, Room A-250, is available to students, as well as foreign language faculty, for computer-assisted instruction, listening to tapes, small group practice in speaking, culture and civilization projects, and foreign language club activities. Those interested in further information about the Center should see the Director, Dr. Nimmons.

NOTE: Students should be counseled to take the required language courses early in their studies. Sometimes students decide in their junior year that they would like to major in language. It is too late at that time to acquire the oral proficiency necessary for majoring in foreign languages.

"SHUT DOORS BEHIND YOU. LOCK THEM AND THROW AWAY THE KEY. THE ONLY DOORS THAT MATTER ARE THOSE WE OPEN TODAY" (HOLMES, 1982, P. 58)!

ADVISING THE STUDENT-ATHLETE

Several factors must be considered when advising the student-athlete. Those factors include the following:

A. Minimum Academic Requirements

1. To be eligible to compete, academic requirements must be met. A student-athlete remains or becomes eligible by earning a minimum of 24 semester hours of credit acceptable toward graduation earned during each 12 month period of athletic participation.

2. A student-athlete who registers for 8 or more semester hours at the beginning of a quarter and subsequently drops enough semester hours to become part time (less than 8 semester hours) immediately loses eligibility. NOTE: Any athlete wishing to drop a class or classes MUST have signed approval from the Athletic Director.

3. Student-athletes who are graduating seniors are not required to be enrolled full time during their final quarter of enrollment if their graduation requirements call for fewer than 8 semester hours their final quarter.

B. Scholastic Standards

1. To be eligible to compete, the student-athlete must attain the following cumulative scholastic levels:

   23 - 44 semester hours. 1.75
   45 - 66 semester hours. 1.90
   67 semester hours and above . . . 2.00

2. Each student-athlete failing to earn the standing designated above will be placed on academic probation, will be removed from the eligibility lists, will not be allowed to represent Houston Baptist University, and will jeopardize athletically-related financial aid.

3. Freshman student-athletes are allowed by the NCAA and H.B.U. to compete during their freshman year regardless of their academic record.

C. Scheduling and Attending Classes

1. The student-athlete should schedule classes around regularly scheduled practice times, which usually begin around 2:00 p.m. each weekday.

2. Since scheduled athletic events, especially those away from the campus of H.B.U., will occasionally cause the student-athlete to miss class, the athlete should be strongly encouraged to attend class regularly at all other times. The student-athlete should also be reminded to notify his instructors when he will be forced to miss class and to arrange to complete all missed work.

NOTE: Questions regarding athletes should be addressed to the Athletic Department.

ADVISING STUDENTS RECEIVING FEDERAL AID

A. Types of FEDERAL AID

H.B.U. students may apply for the following types of FEDERAL AID:

1. College Work Study
2. Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL)
3. National Direct Student Loan
4. Pell Grant (BEOG)
5. Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant

B. Satisfactory Progress for FEDERAL AID

According to federal regulations, you must be making satisfactory academic progress in order to continue receiving federal funds.

The financial aid office at H.B.U. defines satisfactory progress on a qualitative scale according to a student's classification and cumulative grade point average.

CLASSIFICATION	TOTAL SEMESTER HOURS*	MINIMUM G.P.A.
Freshman	1-31	1.7
Sophomore	32-63	1.8
Junior	64-95	1.9
Senior	96+	2.0

*Note: includes transfer hours accepted by the Records Office

Note: first time freshmen have three quarters before this minimum applies. (not applicable to transfer students)

In addition to maintaining an acceptable G.P.A., students receiving federal funds at H.B.U. must demonstrate a reasonable quantitative progression towards a degree objective. Undergraduate students will be eligible for aid for no more than 174 semester hours attempted, with an "attempted hours" to "completed hours" ratio of at least 75%.

Should you not achieve the minimum requirements after your probationary quarter, all federal aid will be terminated. You may reapply for federal funds after the quarter in which the minimum standards have been met, by submitting a written request to the Financial Aid Office.

C. Educational Purpose/Registration Compliance for FEDERAL AID

H.B.U. students receiving FEDERAL AID must complete the appropriate statements listed below:

1. I certify that I will use any money I receive under the Title IV student financial aid programs only for expenses related to attendance at Houston Baptist University, and

2. _____I certify that I am not required to be registered with Selective Service, because: (Check one reason)

   _____I am a female.

   _____I am in the armed services on active duty. (Note: Members of the Reserves and National Guard are not considered on active duty)

   _____I have not reached my 18th birthday.

   _____I was born before 1960.

   _____I am a permanent resident of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands or the Northern Marianna Islands.

3. _____I certify that I am registered with Selective Services. Notice: You may be required to give proof that you are registered with Selective Service.

4. Signature_______________________________Date_________________________

NOTE: Questions regarding students receiving FEDERAL AID should be addressed to the Financial Aid office.

"ONE OF THE THINGS YOU HAVE TO DO AS AN ADVISOR IS GIVE THE STUDENT A CHANCE TO RAMBLE--LET YOU KNOW WHERE HE OR SHE IS COMING FROM" (COLLEGE OF SCIENCES AND HUMANITIES, UNDATED, P. 1).

CONVOCATION POLICIES

1. All Full-time undergraduates (8 hours or more) are required to attend convocation as long as they attend Houston Baptist University.

2. This course will be taken on a pass-fail basis with satisfactory attendance being a criteria for grading. Students are to be attentive at all convocations and present a good image of our student body.

3. It is the responsibility of each student to know his convocation requirement and, also, to see that his/her attendance is accurately recorded by the attendance clerk. Students must be checked in by 10:00 a.m. to be counted present. No student is dismissed until the program is terminated.

4. Satisfactory attendance means that a student must attend 2/3 of the convocation programs. This would mean attending eight (8) of eleven (11) for the Fall and Spring Quarters and seven (7) of ten (10) for the Winter Quarter. The requirement of eight (8) of eleven (11) is due to the extra Tuesday requirement during Religious Emphasis Week in the fall and Life Commitment Week in the spring. No disciplinary action will be taken for unsatisfactory attendance, but a student who fails will jeopardize his/her graduation, as this is a degree requirement.

5. The absences allowed per quarter include those absences due to illness, personal reasons, etc.

6. Convocation is scheduled from 10:00-11:00 a.m. each Thursday in Sharp Gymnasium. The number in the upper left hand corner of your Student I.D. Card will be given to the attendance clerk.

7. Tuesdays at 10:00 a.m. will be Activity Period to be used for such activities as (1) Senate or C.L.C. Committees, (2) Class Meetings, (3) Roundtable, Pep Rallies, and Student Recitals, etc. Exception to this is that the Tuesday Activity Period will be utilized as mandatory convocation during Religious Emphasis Week in the fall, and Life Commitment Week in the spring. All activities are to be scheduled on the official school calendar in the Student Affairs Office.

8. The Vice President for Student Affairs will have the authority for the implementation of the program.

9. Only members of Houston Baptist University family may attend these convocations. (Your parents are considered as family.) Only a limited number of tickets will be distributed for some of the convocations as facilities permit.

STUDY SKILLS

STUDY SKILLS PROVIDE STUDENTS WITH THE ABILITY TO LEARN EFFECTIVELY AND ARE FUNDAMENTAL TO EACH STUDENT'S SUCCESS IN DEVELOPING TALENTS IN COMMUNICATION, MATHEMATICAL SCIENCES, AND REASONING. STUDY SKILLS GOALS ESTABLISHED BY THE COORDINATING BOARD INCLUDE:

1. LEARN TO PAY ATTENTION AND TAKE THOROUGH, WELL-ORGANIZED LECTURE NOTES.
2. PRACTICE LEARNING MATERIAL ON YOUR OWN.
3. SET UP A SPECIAL TIME AND PLACE TO STUDY.
4. LEARN TO MANAGE YOUR STUDY TIME TO MEET DEADLINES.
5. LEARN TO USE LIBRARIES, COMPUTERS, AND A TYPEWRITER.
6. LEARN TO FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS ACCURATELY.
7. LEARN HOW TO TAKE TESTS EFFECTIVELY.
8. IMPROVE YOUR MEMORY SKILLS (COORDINATING BOARD, 1984).

WHAT WILL A MISSIONARY FACE?

Southern Baptist missionaries are strategically at work in Africa, Europe and the Middle East, Latin America, and Asia. This statement is prepared to help you understand something of what the missionary encounters in overseas service. Though the candidate will have additional preparation for his task, including orientation and language school, this preparation helps only people who already have the basic dedication and effectiveness for missionary service.

1. Missionaries must be physically and mentally able to handle a heavy work load. They work among people with cultures and languages quite different from their own. The ensuing adjustment can be quite severe.

2. Missionaries often find themselves in the midst of problems created by rising national consciousness as well as racial crosscurrents. They must be able to meet suspicion, criticism, or antagonism with understanding and forgiveness.

3. Since leadership of an indigenous church must pass into the hands of nationals as soon as possible, missionaries must be able to share authority and, if indicated, work under local leaders whose preparation might not equal their own.

4. The organization of missionaries in a particular country, called the Mission, is a closely knit fellowship. The very closeness of the group can set the stage for painful friction if a person is not able to work and wear well.

5. For the missionary family there are special problems of rearing and educating children, of maintaining wholesome Christian family life, and of isolation experienced at times when the husband or wife travels.

6. The basic missionary task, whatever one's particular training and responsibility, is witnessing to the redeeming power of Jesus Christ. Every missionary must have basic spiritual depth and maturity to lead others to Christ and to lead new Christians to grow in the faith.

7. Finally, the totality of all the above calls for men and women of prayer and dependence upon the Holy Spirit.

Personnel Selection Department
Foreign Mission Board, SBC

STATEMENT ON PREPARATION FOR SEMINARY STUDIES

Theological study as accredited by the Association of Theological Schools presupposes an appropriate accredited bachelor's degree.

The following guidelines are designed to aid ATS member schools in formulating admissions policies and in counseling students on preseminary education.

I. General Principles

a. Schools should require evidence that a student has developed to a satisfactory degree the ability to think independently, to communicate effectively, and to do research.

b. Students should possess a basic general knowledge of past and present culture through studies in the humanities, and the natural and social sciences.

c. The biblical languages are useful tools which may be acquired in the preseminary period. Latin is important, especially in some traditions. Modern languages such as German, French, and Spanish are also valuable.

II. Religious Studies

a. The study of religion is appropriate within a liberal arts education. Students should be discouraged, however, from anticipating to any considerable extent at the undergraduate level work which will form part of their seminary program. Such anticipation may narrow the base on which later theological reflection will rest and may also create problems in planning an integrated program in the theological school.

b. Seminaries, on their part, should attempt to accommodate students with advanced undergraduate work in the area of religion.

III. Special Circumstances

a. Specific curricular requirements, for example, in philosophy, may be required by member schools.

b. A demonstrated competence, e.g., in business or a profession, may be considered a helpful part of preseminary preparation.

c. Candidates whose formal preparation is deficient may be required to undertake remedial study at the undergraduate level even though they hold an accredited bachelor's degree.

d. Accepted measuring tests, such as the Graduate Record Examination, are appropriate aids to evaluate applicants.

e. Schools should assess by letters of reference and, if possible, by interview, their applicants' maturity, emotional stability, skill in personal relationships, and commitment to theological study.

A SOUTHERN BAPTIST THOUGHT

A SOUTHERN BAPTIST KNOWS THAT
. . . his life authority is Jesus Christ,
. . . his text for truth, the Bible,
. . . his salvation by grace, a gift,
. . . his responsibility personal to God.

A Southern Baptist knows a spirit of unique cooperation with sister Baptist churches in mutual commitment to the Great Commission of Jesus Christ. Evangelism and missions create the Cooperative Program he supports mutually with other Southern Baptists.

A Southern Baptist knows that his only creed is God's inerrant word clarified and communicated in the person of Jesus Christ. He knows the priesthood of every believer and interprets and applies God's word under the leadership of the Holy Spirit. He celebrates the local, autonomous responsibility of his church and recognizes the unique personalities and cooperative spirits of other Baptist churches.

A Southern Baptist knows that his denomination has unprecedented potential for world evangelism and missions and knows that Satan would rather destroy that potential than anything his evil heart can dream.

A Southern Baptist knows he must cool his head, warm his heart, confess his sin, break his spirit and tough-love his combative siblings by ordaining leadership capable of fulfilling the purpose that united us in the first place--the Great Commission of Jesus Christ. A Southern Baptist hopefully not only knows, but does (Yeary, 1985).

THE PREAMBLE TO THE BY-LAWS

HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY

THE HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY IS A CHRISTIAN LIBERAL ARTS UNIVERSITY DEDICATED TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF MORAL CHARACTER, THE ENRICHMENT OF SPIRITUAL LIVES, AND THE PERPETUATION OF GROWTH IN CHRISTIAN IDEALS. FOUNDED UNDER THE PROVIDENCE OF GOD AND WITH THE CONVICTION THAT THERE IS A NEED FOR A UNIVERSITY IN THIS COMMUNITY THAT WILL TRAIN THE MINDS, DEVELOP THE MORAL CHARACTER AND ENRICH THE SPIRITUAL LIVES OF ALL PEOPLE WHO MAY COME WITHIN THE AMBIT OF ITS INFLUENCE, HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY SHALL STAND AS A WITNESS FOR JESUS CHRIST EXPRESSED DIRECTLY THROUGH ITS ADMINISTRATION, FACULTY AND STUDENTS. TO ASSURE THE PERPETUATION OF THESE BASIC CONCEPTS OF ITS FOUNDERS, IT IS RESOLVED THAT ALL THOSE WHO BECOME ASSOCIATED WITH HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY AS A TRUSTEE, OFFICER, MEMBER OF THE FACULTY OR OF THE STAFF, AND PERFORM WORK CONNECTED WITH THE EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES OF THE UNIVERSITY, MUST BELIEVE IN THE DIVINE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE, BOTH THE OLD TESTAMENT AND NEW TESTAMENT, THAT MAN WAS DIRECTLY CREATED BY GOD, THE VIRGIN BIRTH OF JESUS CHRIST, OUR LORD AND SAVIOR, AS THE SON OF GOD, THAT HE DIED FOR THE SINS OF ALL MEN AND THEREAFTER AROSE FROM THE GRAVE, THAT BY REPENTANCE AND THE ACCEPTANCE OF AND BELIEF IN HIM, BY THE GRACE OF GOD, THE INDIVIDUAL IS SAVED FROM ETERNAL DAMNATION AND RECEIVES ETERNAL LIFE IN THE PRESENCE OF GOD; AND IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED THAT THE ULTIMATE TEACHINGS IN THIS UNIVERSITY SHALL NEVER BE INCONSISTENT WITH THE ABOVE PRINCIPLES (HOUSTON BAPTIST UNIVERSITY BULLETIN OF INFORMATION 1986-87, P. 9).

THIS IS A FRIENDLY COMMUNITY

When Luella Greer of Fairfield Bay brought in the following story written by her son, John Hlinek, I immediately loved it, but I had doubts as to how it would be received by the general public if placed in publication.

Mrs. Greer quickly put my worries to rest when she pointed out that the Rev. Hilton Lane, pastor of the Baptist Church here had read the piece and given it his blessings, so to speak.

Here tis:

There was nice lady who was a little old-fashioned. She was planning a week's vacation in Arkansas after she had heard about a new R-V campground, but she wanted to make sure of the accommodations first.

Uppermost in her mind was whether toilet facilities were available, but she couldn't bring herself to write "toilet" in a letter. After considerable deliberation, she settled on "bathroom commode" but when she wrote that down, it still sounded too forward to her. Then she re-wrote the letter to the campground and referred to the bathroom commode as the "BC."

The campground owner was baffled by the euphemism so he took the letter around to several campers; they couldn't decipher it either. Finally the campground owner figured she must be referring to the location of the Baptist Church at Fairfield Bay so he sat down and wrote:

"Dear Madam, I regret very much the delay in answering your letter but I now take the pleasure to inform you that a "BC" is located just about nine miles north of the campground and is capable of a seating capacity of about 200 people at one time. I admit it is a bit of a distance away if you are in the habit of going regularly, but no doubt you will be quite pleased to know that a great number of people take their lunches along and make a day of it. They usually arrive early and stay late.

"The last time my wife and I went was six years ago, and it was so crowded we had to stand up the whole time we were there. It may interest you to know that right now there is a supper planned to raise money to buy more seats. They're going to hold it in the basement of the "BC."

"I would like to say it pains me very much not to be able to go more regularly, but it is surely no lack of desire on my part. As we grow older, it seems to be more of an effort, particularly in cold weather.

"If you do decide to come down to our campground, perhaps I could go with you the first time, sit with you and introduce you to all the other folks. Remember, this is a FRIENDLY COMMUNITY" (Allen, 1986).

APPENDIX C

REGISTRATION QUESTIONS

WHAT TO DO IF A STUDENT . . . . .

wants to add or drop a course

Only one student-initiated schedule change is allowed each quarter and the dates for doing this are included in the Bulletin of Information and the printed newspaper schedule.

During the period after preregistration and until the distribution of the first class rolls, the advisor's signature is the only faculty signature required to add/drop a course. After that time the signatures of all concerned professors (including the advisor) are required.

Addition of a class is not permitted after the last day to add a class published in the Bulletin of Information. Withdrawal from class is not permitted after the withdrawal date published in the Bulletin of Information except under special circumstances (see "Complete Withdrawal" in the Bulletin of Information.)

wants to change class status (alpha to pass/fail or vice versa)

The assumption in all classes is that the course is taken on an alpha basis. A change in status is permissible only during the period of registration and must be accomplished on an add/drop form or registration process form prior to the last day to add a class.

is not listed on my class roll.

Students who are not listed on the roll must be sent to the Records Office to clarify their registration status and should not be permitted to attend class without clearance from the Records Office and the Business Office. Students who are not properly registered for a course and whose names do not appear on the 12th day class roll will NOT receive a grade for the course. Responsibiliity for that rests jointly on the student and the professor.

is listed on my class roll with the notation "must pay"

Students so designated are in the right class but must present proof of business office clearance to remain in the class.

wants to withdraw from the University after the "W" day

A student who is withdrawing from all courses in the University may do so with the permission of the Dean of Admissions and Records, at any time prior to the beginning of the final examination period with a grade of "W."

APPENDIX D

GRADE QUESTION

WHAT TO DO IF A STUDENT . . . . .

is not listed on my grade request sheet

Check with the records office to clarify the student's status. DO NOT write in the student's name unless authorized to do so by the Records Office.

is not designated as taking the class pass/fail

A student must opt to change class status during the period of open registration and may not change status either way once registration is closed. Check with the Records Office to clarify the student's status.

is listed on the grade request but has never attended

A student is responsible for his own withdrawal from a class. If the student's name is listed and no grade of "W" is recorded, the student has not officially withdrawn and should be given an "F."

is actively enrolled but missed the final examination without explanation

The instructor may, with the approval of the Dean of the College, assign a grade of "NR." At the end of late registration for the next quarter an "NR" automatically becomes an "F." NOTE: A grade of IS/IU is not appropriate under the circumstances.

requests an incomplete in my course

An incomplete in a course is to be given under very restricted circumstances. It must be requested on a special form by the student and approved by the instructor and the instructor's dean.

The form must indicate the basis for giving the incomplete, exactly what must be done by the student to remove the incomplete, and the name of the faculty member who will be able to certify that the work has been done in the forced absence of the instructor.

An incomplete is not a substitute for a low or failing grade. The grade earned should be assigned and the student encouraged to repeat the course officially. At the end of one academic quarter the incomplete is automatically changed to an "F" unless it is offically removed.

is entitled to have his grade changed

It is necessary for the instructor changing the grade to do so in person in the Records Office.
